New Homepage

Test equipment for electric and hybrid vehicles

As early as 2030, every third new car registered in Europe could be an electric car. These vehicles also need to be tested, maintained and repaired. The methods and test equipment from Autotestgeräte Leitenberger are ideally suited for the early detection and identification of safety-relevant weak points in high-voltage and thermal management systems. Discover lots of interesting information and our product range on our new homepage: www.emobility-pruefgeraete.com
